Virgin Atlantic Stop Press 801 – Cessation of the Little Red domestic flying operation from 2015.

Virgin Atlantic has today announced that it will cease the Little Red domestic flying operation next year.

Its three daily services between London Heathrow and Manchester will continue to the end of March 2015, while flights between London Heathrow and Aberdeen and Edinburgh will continue throughout summer 2015 with the final flights in September

Final flights for the domestic routes are as follows:

Manchester – 28 March 2015

Aberdeen – 26 September 2015

Edinburgh – 26 September 2015

We are absolutely committed to all of our services until these dates and customers can book with us with confidence until then. We will be offering our Flying Club members some special offers on mileage redemption on these routes until they close.

Options for affected passengers

We are in discussions with airlines to provide alternative options for ticketed passengers affected by the cessation of Little Red. Details of these options will be sent you as soon as possible.
